A Transformational Journey to The Heart of Love-Wisdom

Entering the temples of Teotihuacan and Palenque, Mexico

With Ronna Prince and Dr. Donald Backstrom

February 8 - 15, 2010

The ancient Mayan timekeepers knew the secrets of the ages and encoded them in turnings of the great calendar wheels. They recorded these secrets in their temples and codices as signs for us to see Now during the shift to a new paradigm. The end of the Mayan calendar heralds a time of death and rebirth. This is a theme that many of us are dancing with as we redefine our lives and our service in the world of constant change. We can move through these changes with conscious choice creation if we choose to embrace The Heart of Love-Wisdom.

Join spiritual teachers and energy practitioners Ronna Prince and Dr. Donald Backstrom for a sacred journey to the Teo, "birthplace of the Gods" and home of the Great Coral Goddess and Palenque, burial place of Pacal Voltan, the Mayan Timekeeper. The theme of this sacred journey is to reclaim the heart of love-wisdom. Energetically in the human subtle anatomy, the love-wisdom center is found in the coral chakra between the root chakra (red) and the sacral chakra (orange). The Great Coral Goddess of Teo represents the theme of earth, water, the underworld and possibly, even creation itself. She is depicted with the tree of life growing out of her head and surrounded by the totems of jaguar, spider and Butterfly.

As we journey through the massive complex in Teo over several days, we will enlighten our own coral energy center and envision a new way of being: moving from a grounded center of love and wisdom that creates the healing shift that we have sought over many lifetimes. The shift is to one of empowerment as we transition into higher states of consciousness. Embracing the heart of love-wisdom for ourselves then transforms us as we expand this energy to all we meet. Each footstep taken in conscious love has the power to heal; each thought, each word, and each action becomes aligned with the heart of love-wisdom.

During our Sacred Journey you will:

- Learn about the coral energy center, called the Low Heart, both in your anatomy and in the energy anatomy of Earth
- Practice clearing the lower chakras without re-creating trauma
- Learn how to ground yourself and stay grounded (if you choose!)
- Activate your inner healer; tap into your own healing powers and portals
- Balance your triple heart structure – high heart-middle heart-low heart
- Listen to several channelings from Pacal Voltan, the Mayan Timekeeper and his partner, Ix Chel, Mana Rainbow Weaver. These beings come to express joy and reawakening.
- Experience an initiation of courage in Palenque's Temple of the Lion

One of the most important structures in Palenque is the Tomb of Lord Pakal The Great, K'inich Janaab' Pakal (23 March 603 - 28 August 683), discovered in 1952 by Alberto Ruz Lhuillier inside the Temple of the Inscriptions. Pakal died on August 31, 683 at eighty years of age. He had assumed the throne on July 29, 615 A.D. at the age of twelve, and ruled for 68 years. During his long reign—near the end of the Classic Period (AD 250-900)—Pakal transformed Palenque into a great city. Around AD 675, as an old man nearing death, he undertook the construction of his burial temple. As the crypt is larger than the entrance to the chamber, it is thought that it was built before the pyramid. Pakal's body was placed in the limestone, body-shaped sarcophagus and then it was sealed with a 3.8 by 2.2 meter stone cover. Once the burial rites were completed and the chamber sealed with a layer of stucco, five or six sacrificial victims were laid in the small antechamber. The stairway inside the temple was filled with rubble, jade, pottery and shell offerings. A stone airshaft, called a "psychoduct," was built starting at a notch in the funeral chamber door and rising to the upper floor of the temple. According to the late Linda Schele, a renowned researcher, the Maya believed that the shaft allowed a mythological serpent to rise from Pakal's tomb to the place occupied by his descendants.
